

7-DAY

A Faith-Based Journey Through Grief, Surrender, and Finding God in the Wilderness

For Single Mothers Who Are Done Surviving
and Ready to Be Restored

By Rhina Jasmyn

Author of: The Shortcuts That Stole Everything — But Jesus Christ Restored It All
| calltomoreandyou.com

A Letter From Rhina

Mama, I see you.

I know what it feels like to stand in the middle of your own life and not recognize it. To smile at people who ask how you are doing, while everything inside you is powder. To lay awake at night running every decision through your mind like a detective, trying to figure out what you missed, what you could have done differently, and why God is not answering.

I became that detective. I shut down. I was embarrassed — nobody knew what was happening behind closed doors. I was exhausted, confused, and looking for answers in every wrong place. Until one day, God pulled me aside and said: Stop. Right here. Get in the Word.

That is what this guide is. Not a quick fix. Not a list of things to feel better. This is seven days of intentional, honest work between you and God. It will probably take you longer than seven days — and that is more than okay. Peel the onion at your pace. Some days you will read one page and need to sit with it for a week. That is healing. That is the work.

I am not here to tell you what to do. I am here to point you to the only One who knows exactly what you need. The Bible is not a self-help book. It is the living Word of the God who sees you — El Roi — the same God who met Hagar alone in the wilderness and called her by name.

He sees you too. In the bathroom at 2am. In the car after drop-off when you finally fall apart. In the quiet moments when you wonder if you will ever feel like yourself again.

You will. Not because I said so. Because He promised.

— Rhina Jasmyn, your friend in Christ

How to Use This Guide

Each day focuses on one area of your healing. You will find:

- A scripture for the day — read it slowly, more than once
- A word from Rhina — raw and honest, written from the journey
- Reflection questions — be honest, do not rush through them
- Writing lines — your answers matter, put them on paper
- A closing prayer — speak it out loud if you can

There is no rule that says you must complete this in seven days. Some days require you to sit longer. Some pages will need to be revisited. What matters is that you do not skip the work. The enemy wants you to skim. God is inviting you to dig.

Do this somewhere quiet. Put your phone face down. Ask the Holy Spirit to open your eyes before you begin each day. He will.

DAY 1 The Grief Is Real — Let It Be

FOCUS: MIND — Acknowledging what happened without shame

"The Lord is near to the brokenhearted and saves those who are crushed in spirit." — Psalm 34:18

From Rhina

Nobody told me that the end of a marriage feels like a death. It is a death — the death of a future you planned, a family you built in your imagination, a version of your life that will never exist. And just like grief after death, this grief is not linear, it is not clean, and it does not have a schedule.

I remember sitting on the floor of my closet not knowing what day it was. Not because I was weak. Because I was human. God never told us not to grieve. He told us we do not grieve without hope.

Your first job in this season is not to get over it. It is to be honest about it — with yourself and with God. You cannot heal what you refuse to name.

Read this verse again slowly:

"He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds." — Psalm 147:3

He does not say stop hurting. He says I will heal it. There is a difference.

Today's Work

1. Name the loss honestly. What specifically died when this relationship ended?

2. What are you most afraid to admit — even to yourself — about how you are feeling right now?

3. Write this verse out in your own words as if God is speaking it directly to you:
Psalm 34:18 — The Lord is near to the brokenhearted...

4. What is one thing you have been pretending is fine that is not fine?

Today's Prayer

Lord, I am not okay. I know You already know that, but I have been pretending otherwise. Today I stop pretending. My heart is broken and I am bringing it to You — all of it. The grief, the confusion, the embarrassment, the anger, the questions. I am not hiding it anymore. You said You are near to the brokenhearted. That is me today. Be near to me now. In Jesus name, Amen.

"Weeping may stay for the night, but rejoicing comes in the morning." —
Psalm 30:5

DAY 2 Guard What Goes Into Your Mind

FOCUS: MIND & THOUGHTS — What you feed your mind will determine what grows

"Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is — his good, pleasing and perfect will." — Romans 12:2

From Rhina

During my divorce, the enemy kept my mind fully distracted and far from God and His Word. The confusion was overwhelming. I did not even realize what was happening to me. I would sit on the toilet — alone with my racing mind — going over every mistake, replaying every decision, convinced it was all my fault.

Your mind is not a trash can. It is sacred ground. What you allow into it shapes everything — your decisions, your peace, your faith, your future. In this season especially, you cannot afford to let social media, the wrong voices, or your own spiraling thoughts run unchecked. You have to get intentional about what gets access.

This is not about positive thinking. This is about replacing lies with the Word of God — one thought at a time.

"We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ." — 2 Corinthians 10:5

"Finally, brothers and sisters, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable — think about such things." — Philippians 4:8

Today's Work

1. Write down the 3 most repeated thoughts that come into your mind about your situation. No filter — write what actually plays on repeat.

2. Now look at each one. Is it true — or is it a lie the enemy has planted? Write T for true or L for lie next to each one.

3. For every lie you identified, find ONE scripture that speaks the opposite truth. Write it down.

(Examples: if the lie is 'I am not enough' — Psalm 139:14. If the lie is 'God has forgotten me' — Isaiah 49:15-16. If the lie is 'This will never get better' — Jeremiah 29:11)

4. What are you consuming daily that is feeding your anxiety instead of your faith? Social media? Certain people? What needs to change?

5. Write Romans 12:2 out slowly. What does 'transformed by the renewing of your mind' mean for your specific situation today?

Today's Prayer

Lord, my mind has been a battlefield. I confess that I have let thoughts run wild — replaying, spiraling, fearing. Today I choose differently. I take every thought captive to the obedience of Christ. I refuse to let the enemy use my mind against me. Renew my mind with Your Word. Show me what is true. Replace every lie with Your voice. I want my thoughts to be Yours. In Jesus name, Amen.

DAY 3 The Heart Before God — Full Surrender

FOCUS: HEART & SURRENDER — You cannot hold on and let go at the same time

"Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways submit to him, and he will make your paths straight." — Proverbs 3:5-6

From Rhina

Surrender was the hardest word in my vocabulary. I thought I was surrendering — I was praying, I was going to church, I was asking God to fix things. But I was holding the steering wheel with both hands and asking God to take the passenger seat and give directions.

Real surrender is releasing the outcome. It is saying: Lord, I do not like this. I did not choose this. I would change this if I could. But I trust You more than I trust myself. That is the prayer that changed everything for me.

There is also something I need to say clearly: surrender does not mean staying in a harmful situation. God asked me to surrender MY WILL — not my safety. He asked me to release MY TIMELINE — not tolerate abuse. Surrender is between you and God. What He calls you to do after that will become clear when your hands are finally open.

"Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest." — Matthew 11:28

"Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you." — 1 Peter 5:7

Today's Work

1. What are you still holding onto that you know God is asking you to release? Be specific.

2. What does surrender feel like in your body right now — fear, relief, resistance? Describe it.

3. Write a prayer of surrender in your own words. Not the one from below — YOUR words. What do you actually want to say to God right now?

4. Read Matthew 11:28 again. Jesus says 'I will give you rest.' What does rest mean to you in this season — what would it actually look like?

5. What has trying to fix this yourself — without full surrender — cost you?

Today's Prayer

Father, I have been holding on. I have been trying to figure it out, fix it, understand it, and manage it on my own. Today I stop. Not my will — Yours. Not my timing — Yours. Not my plan — Yours. I release [name it] into Your hands. I trust that You see what I cannot see, and that Your plan for me is better than anything I could arrange. I am tired of carrying this alone. It is Yours. In Jesus name, Amen.

DAY 4 Your Circle — Not Everyone Deserves Your Ears

FOCUS: PEOPLE & COMMUNITY — Who is speaking into your life right now matters more than you know

"Walk with the wise and become wise, for a companion of fools suffers harm." — Proverbs 13:20

From Rhina

After my divorce I was desperate for someone to pray for me, to tell me what to do. I needed someone who knew God — really knew Him. Instead, I confided in a pastor's wife I respected, and she told me it was my duty to stay, that it was just how men are, that I needed to accept it. I left more broken than when I arrived.

Not everyone who loves God is equipped to speak into your specific situation. Not everyone who loves you has the spiritual depth you need in this moment. And not everyone who asks how you are doing is safe with your answer.

This is not about isolating yourself. It is about being intentional. Grief makes us vulnerable. Vulnerability in the wrong room becomes a liability. You need people who will point you to God — not to their opinion, not to what they would do, not to gossip. People who will pray with you and then send you back to the Word.

"But as for me, the nearness of God is my good; I have made the Lord God my refuge, that I may tell of all Your works." — Psalm 73:28

"Two are better than one, because they have a good return for their labor: If either of them falls down, one can help the other up." — Ecclesiastes 4:9-10

Today's Work

1. Who have you been going to for counsel in this season? List them honestly.

2. Of those people — do they point you to God and His Word, or do they mostly share their opinions? Be honest about each person.

3. Is there anyone in your life right now who should NOT have access to your story in this vulnerable season? Why?

4. Who is one person — or one type of person — you need to actively seek out: someone rooted in God, who prays, who has walked through something hard and come out with their faith intact?

5. What is one boundary you need to set this week about who speaks into your life and how?

Today's Prayer

Lord, show me who is safe. Show me who carries Your Spirit and can hold what I am going through without distorting it. Protect me from well-meaning voices that lead me away from You. Connect me with people who will pray with me, point me to Scripture, and stand with me in faith — not in fear. Give me the discernment to know the difference. And when I am lonely, remind me that You are the Friend who never leaves. In Jesus name, Amen.

DAY 5 Co-Dependency — Breaking the Chains That Keep You Stuck

FOCUS: FREEDOM — Why you stayed, and what it will take to truly leave

"It is for freedom that Christ has set us free. Stand firm, then, and do not let yourselves be burdened again by a yoke of slavery." — Galatians 5:1

From Rhina

People asked me why I stayed so long. The answer is complicated. I stayed because of my children. I stayed because of finances. I stayed because I did not know how I would survive without the stability — even when that stability was destroying me. I stayed because Malachi 2:16 haunted me. I stayed because I thought staying was faithfulness.

But staying out of fear is not faith. Staying because you cannot imagine surviving alone is not surrender — it is co-dependency. And co-dependency looks different for everyone. Sometimes it is financial. Sometimes it is the identity you built around being someone's wife. Sometimes it is the fear of what people will think. Sometimes it is the terrifying question: who am I without this?

God never designed you to need another human being more than you need Him. When a person — even a good person — becomes the source of your security, your identity, your peace, you have built your house on sand. This is the work of Day 5. Not to shame you for staying. But to help you see clearly what has been keeping you, so that you can choose differently going forward.

"So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed." — John 8:36

"I can do all this through him who gives me strength." — Philippians 4:13

Today's Work

1. Be completely honest: what specifically has kept you in this situation or kept you from healing? Circle everything that applies and write about it:

- ☐ Fear of being alone
- ☐ Financial dependence
- ☐ The children
- ☐ What people will think
- ☐ Not knowing who I am without this relationship
- ☐ Hoping it will change
- ☐ Religious guilt
- ☐ Other:

2. Which of those things is God — and which is fear? Write out the difference honestly.

3. Read Galatians 5:1 again. What yoke are you still carrying that Christ already died to free you from?

4. What would your life look like if you actually believed Philippians 4:13 — that you can do ALL things through Christ who strengthens you? What decision would you make?

Today's Prayer

Lord, I confess that I have placed my security in things and people that were never meant to hold me. Today I name every chain — fear, finances, approval, identity — and I lay them at Your feet. I am not designed to need any person more than I need You. You are my Provider. You are my Protector. You are my Peace. Break every co-dependent pattern in me that is rooted in fear rather than faith. Teach me what it means to need only You. In Jesus name, Amen.

DAY 6 Hope — Finding It When You Cannot Feel It

FOCUS: HOPE & DISTRACTION — What to do when you need to breathe, and how to find light in the dark

*"For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future." —
Jeremiah 29:11*

From Rhina

There were days I could not feel hope. I want to be honest about that. Faith is not the absence of that feeling. Faith is choosing to stand on what God said even when you cannot feel it yet.

But I also learned something practical: grief without any relief becomes consuming. You need moments where you breathe. Not to run from the healing — but to survive it. For me it was music. It was a walk. It was singing You Are My Sunshine to my children at bedtime and feeling, just for a moment, that God had given me something the pain could not touch.

Hope is not found in a new relationship, a better circumstance, or a problem being solved. Hope is found in the character of God. He does not change. His plans do not get cancelled when yours fall apart. In fact — your plans falling apart is often exactly how His plans get room to begin.

*"But those who hope in the Lord will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint." — Isaiah 40:31

*"And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose." — Romans 8:28

Today's Work

1. What has stolen your hope the most in this season? Name it specifically.

2. Read Jeremiah 29:11. God says He has plans for you — PLANS, not accidents. Write a list of 5 things you are believing God for in your future, no matter how far away they feel right now.

3. What is one healthy, life-giving thing you can do for yourself this week that has nothing to do with your situation? Something that lets you breathe. Write it down and commit to doing it.

4. Look back at a hard season in your past that God brought you through. Write out what happened — and how it ended. Let that be your evidence for today.

5. Write out Romans 8:28 slowly. What does 'all things' mean to you personally right now?

Today's Prayer

Lord, I choose hope today — not because I feel it, but because Your Word says You have plans for me. Plans that did not get cancelled when this season started. I release the future I planned and I receive the future You designed. Restore my joy. Remind me of Your faithfulness. Show me one small sign today that You are working. I trust You with all things — even this. In Jesus name, Amen.

DAY 7 Forward — Building the Daily Habits That Will Sustain You

FOCUS: PRAYER, WORD & DAILY PATTERN — This is not the end. This is where the real work begins.

"But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well." — Matthew 6:33

From Rhina

Day 7 is not the finish line. It is the starting point. Everything you have done this week — the honesty, the surrender, the tears on those pages — is the foundation. Now you build the daily habits that will keep you from going back to the detective, the spiraling, the wrong rooms, and the wrong sources.

I will tell you exactly what saved me. Not a person. Not a program. Not a podcast — though God used some of those things. What saved me was a daily, non-negotiable decision to seek God FIRST before I touched my phone, before I talked to anyone, before I made a single decision. Matthew 6:33 is not a suggestion. It is a survival strategy.

You do not need to have it figured out. You do not need to feel strong. You just need to open the door a little more each day and let Him in. He does the rest. The peace you are looking for is not on the other side of your circumstances being resolved. It is on the other side of your surrender being complete.

"Lamentations 3:22-23 — Because of the Lord's great love we are not consumed, for his compassions never fail. They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness." — Lamentations 3:22-23

"Delight yourself in the Lord, and he will give you the desires of your heart. Commit your way to the Lord; trust in him and he will do this." — Psalm 37:4-5

Build Your Daily Pattern — Fill This In

Write out what your daily rhythm with God will look like starting tomorrow. Be specific and realistic.

Morning — what will you do BEFORE you pick up your phone?

What scripture or verse will you meditate on this week?

When and where will you pray each day?

What will you stop consuming that pulls you away from God?

Who is one safe, faith-filled person you will reach out to this week?

What is one thing you are declaring over your life from this week forward?

Your Declaration — Write It and Speak It Out Loud

I am not a victim of my circumstances. I am a daughter of the King with authority, purpose, and a future full of hope. I take captive every thought that does not line up with the Word of God. I surrender my timeline, my plan, and my will to the One who sees me — El Roi. I choose the Word over the noise. I choose God over fear. I choose forward. My worst chapter is not my last one.

Final Prayer — from Rhina to You

Lord Jesus, thank You for every woman holding these pages. You see her pain, her questions, her hidden tears, and the things she has never said out loud. Heal what has been broken in her. Renew her mind. Give her the courage to surrender every Ishmael, every distraction, every pity party, every chain. Set healthy boundaries in her life. Fill her with Your joy as strength. Restore what the locusts have eaten — and do it with double blessing. Let her walk forward in freedom, knowing that the valley was never her end but her launching pad into Your perfect will. She is not a victim of her past. She is Your daughter — with authority, purpose, and a future full of hope. In Jesus name, Amen.

You Are Not Done. You Are Beginning.

This guide was never meant to solve everything. Healing is not seven days. It is a daily decision to choose God over the noise, the Word over the worry, and surrender over control — one morning at a time.

Come back to these pages. Repeat the days that hit hardest. Let God speak something new to you each time.

If you are ready to go deeper, my book The Shortcuts That Stole Everything — But Jesus Christ Restored It All walks through my full journey — from rushing God's plan, through 14 years of silence and betrayal, to the full surrender where everything changed. It was written for the woman I used to be. And it was written for you.

Connect with Rhina:

- Website: calltomoreandyou.com
- Instagram: @calltomore
- YouTube: @calltomore
- Book: The Shortcuts That Stole Everything — But Jesus Christ Restored It All — available on Amazon

El Roi sees you. He always has.

— Rhina Jasmyn