The Questions Most Families Avoid

If you passed away today, would your family be okay?

- Would your spouse have enough income to cover living expenses for the next 12 months without rushing back to work or taking a second job?
- Would your children (ages 11 & 15) continue their current life — school, activities, emotional stability — or would everything change?
- Do you have money set aside for funeral costs ($7,000 – $15,000+ on average)?
- Could your family keep your home, or would they be forced to sell or downsize under financial pressure?

These are the hard, real questions that keep loving parents up at night. Most people rely on “free” group life insurance from work — but that often falls far short.

This guide will walk you through the gaps, the solutions, and the peace that comes from being prepared. As someone who has walked through divorce and uncertainty, I created FaithShield to help families like yours replace fear with faith and wisdom (Hosea 4:6).

1. The Reality Check: Are You Truly Protected?

Key Questions to Ask Yourself Today:

- If I die, does my family have immediate cash for funeral + final expenses?
- Will my spouse have income replacement for at least 12–24 months while they grieve and adjust?
- Is there enough to cover the mortgage so the family doesn’t lose their home?

- What about ongoing bills, groceries, car payments, and children's future (college, activities)?

Rule of Thumb for Coverage:

Aim for 7–10 times your annual income + mortgage balance + final expenses + education fund.

2. Group Life Insurance (from Work) vs. Individual Life Insurance

Feature	Group (Employer) Life Insurance	Individual Life Insurance (Yours)
Coverage Amount	Usually 1x salary (often too low)	You choose — 5x, 10x, or more
Portable (take with you)	No — ends or becomes expensive when you leave job	Yes — stays with you for life
Health Questions	Usually none (guaranteed issue)	Simple or full underwriting (many no-exam options)
Cost	"Free" or low, but limited	Very affordable when healthy; locks in rate
Cash Value / Living Benefits	Almost never	Yes (Whole Life / IUL) — you can borrow while alive
Beneficiary Control	Limited	Full control, multiple beneficiaries

Bottom line: Group insurance is a good start, but it is not enough for most families. Individual coverage fills the gap and gives you control.

3. Mortgage Protection – Keep Your Home Safe

A mortgage protection policy (term life designed for your loan) pays off your home if you pass away. Your family stays in the house they love without the burden of payments. This is one of the most requested solutions I help families with.

4. Disability Income Protection

What happens if you become sick or injured and can't work?

- Employer disability benefits are often limited (60% of pay, short duration).
- Individual Disability Income Insurance replaces 60–70%+ of your income tax-free while you recover. Protect your paycheck — it's often more important than life insurance while you're young and healthy.

5. Other Important Solutions

- Term Life: Affordable high coverage for 10–30 years (perfect while kids are young).
- Whole Life / Cash Value: Builds savings you can access while alive + guaranteed death benefit.
- Annuities: Create retirement income you can't outlive.
- Simplified Issue / No-Exam Options (e.g., United Home Life): Fast approval even with some health conditions.

It's normal to think about cost first. The question isn't "Can I afford insurance?" — it's "Can my family afford me not having it?"

Questions to Address Your Own Money Objections:

- How much would your family need each month to maintain their current lifestyle?
- What would happen to your mortgage if your income stopped?
- How long could your savings cover funeral costs + 12 months of expenses?
- If your spouse had to go back to work immediately, how would that affect your children emotionally and practically?
- What is the real cost of doing nothing versus the peace of being properly protected?

The Essence of Value:

Individual policies are often more cost-effective than most people expect. When you buy as an individual (especially while healthy), you lock in lower rates for life. Many families pay less per month than they think for substantial coverage. Plus, with cash-value options, part of your premium builds savings you can access.

The small monthly investment protects everything you've worked hard for — your home, your children's future, and your spouse's peace of mind.

Let's Make This Real – A Few Honest Questions

- When was the last time you thought seriously about your family's protection if something happened to you?
- If your spouse asked you today, "Are we truly protected?" — what would your honest answer be?
- If a friend told you they had no coverage and something happened to their family, what advice would you give them?
- What would it mean for your peace of mind to know your family is secure no matter what?
